SECTION A: COMPREHENSIONQUESTION 1

Read BOTH TEXT A and TEXT B and answer the set questions.

TEXT ADON'T FORGET ABOUT ALZHEIMER

Alzheimer is a crippling brain illness that not only affects sufferers but care givers too.

1. How often do you lose your keys or forget a birthday and curse old age? Forgetting things is common for healthy people but for those with Alzheimer's, a disease that weakens the brain, memory loss is no joke.
2. Soweto resident, Stella Mokgabudi* (65) knows this only too well. During a visit to her 64-year-old sister in Polokwane last year, Stella noticed that Martha* was acting strangely. Martha a widowed domestic worker with six children, who was usually active, sat around all day doing nothing. Martha's children had also noticed a change in their mother's behaviour, and worried when she walked about the streets without a purpose – sometimes even asking for directions.
3. Her odd behaviour confused the family, but earlier this year Stella's pensioners group in Soweto hosted a guest speaker from Alzheimer's SA, a support group for people suffering from this condition. "When the speaker told us about the disease and symptoms, I knew that my sister had it", explains Stella. The guest speaker made her realise that Martha was not getting proper help and care as a pensioner who was staying alone. So Stella armed with some knowledge, bravely decided to fetch her sister to live with her family in Diepkloof, where she could be taken care for. Nevertheless, this decision has come with life-changing choices for Stella. Dependent on her pension for a living and looking after her youngest grandchild, Stella has now become housebound. "I can't attend my pensioners support group anymore", she says, while keeping an eye on her sister. Everyday Stella has to see to it that Martha is bathed, fed and kept safe through the day as her memory – and once active life – fades away.
4. Some people believe that Alzheimer is a curse, which it is not. Loraine Schirlinger Gauteng regional director for Alzheimer SA says Alzheimer is one of the many forms of dementia. Dementia means that certain parts of the brain are no longer able to work properly. Dementia can be caused by long-term illnesses, mild repetitive strokes or injuries to the head, including those experienced in aggressive sport such as rugby or boxing.
5. Although it rarely occurs in people younger than 60, it can affect anyone at any age. What we do know is that there is a genetic link, which means that it runs in families. When people are diagnosed with Alzheimer's the organisation suggests that a neurologist tests the family members, who may be worried about also one day developing the disease.

6. Alzheimer has mild, moderate and severe stages, each with its own symptoms: When the sufferer is in the mild stages, she might be unable to recall events, find the right words, understand what people say and have mood swings. The symptoms of the moderate stage are changes in personalities, confusion, aggression and long-term memory loss. Severe symptoms include withdrawal from society, inability to communicate, inability to take care of themselves, including bathing, getting dressed, brushing their teeth and so on.

SECTION B: SUMMARYQUESTION 2

Your friend has been complaining about the huge bank charges he/she has been experiencing in his/her bank account. You read the article REDUCE YOUR BANK CHARGES. List 7(SEVEN) ways in which your friend can reduce his/her bank charges.

INSTRUCTIONS

1. List SEVEN points in full sentences, using NO MORE THAN 70 words.
2. Number your sentences from 1 – 7.
3. Write only ONE point per line.
4. Use your OWN words.
5. Indicate the number of words you have used in brackets at the end of your summary.

TEXT CREDUCE YOUR BANK CHARGES

1. It is safe, convenient and makes good sense to have a bank account. However, for it to work effectively, consumers have to keep an eye on what their bank is charging them to operate the account. Everytime you do a transaction, whether it's to withdraw money, make a deposit, check your balance or transfer, you are probably going to pay for it. Yet many of us do not even know what our bank is charging us and get a nasty surprise when we take a closer look. Here are tips from experts on how to lower your bank charges.
2. Experts agree that you should keep the minimum balance required in your account to save you from paying overdraft fees, and it is better to do cellphone or online banking than debit orders. Cellphone banking and online banking is cheaper, faster and more convenient. Always make sure that there is enough money in your account for debit orders and other payments, Sharon Falitsane, Drum's financial adviser admonishes.
3. They further advise that you must use your own banks ATM to withdraw cash as you pay more for using the ATMs of other banks and only draw the amount that you want at ATMs (for example, key in own amount if you want R250 instead of the more expensive set options that will cost you more). Drawing money from supermarket tills will not lower your dignity but will show how smart you are. Lastly, you should deposit money at the ATM not over the counter and limit yourself to two internet banking sessions per month.

TEXT FCOMFORT IN A BOWL

As Winter drags on Gayle Edmunds calls on Mimi van der Westhuizen to Share her favourite recipe of soup.

1. Mimi van der Westhuizen's journey to own her own teashop and restaurant is an unusual one. She says, "My husband was a school headmaster and when he retired, I bought him a shop. It was a home industry in pretoria."
2. Years later, a move to Joburg and a rent hike at their shops premises led the Van der Westheizens to Crafters & Cravings in Linden. I would like to have a few tables and serve tea, I said, and my daughter Karen said: "What do you know about that?" I thought, I will show them, she says laughing. The rest is history with a lot of help from search engine Google.
3. Van der Westhuizen says all her recipe come from watching the Food Network and visiting Google. It (Google) is great. You want a cucumber, tomato, cauliflower and mustard soup, you tipe it in. However, she admits to some tweaking later, so the Googling is really just for the (inspire) and experimentation part.
4. She says she came up with the cauliflower and cheese soup to make use of what was in season.
